

Partner's on opposite sides of a barrier communicate with precision, attempting to match the others arrangement of game pieces on a game board. Students take turns at being both the sender and reveiver of the information and both need to use excellent speaking and listening skills to be succesful at the task.

